MUSIC DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

In planning this evening's concert I aimed at providing you with a multi-faceted aural experience that includes abstract, immersive works as well as pieces that draw you directly into thoughts or visions with specific or suggestive programmatic references.

The immersive works, by Dalbavie and Bjarnason, each have their own distinct way of immersing listeners. Dalbavie surrounds the audience with members of the orchestra to bring them intimately into the intricacies and virtuosic energies that the soloist and orchestra engage in. Bjarnason on the other hand, with a very large orchestra on stage, creates massive, sensory walls of orchestral colours and textures that envelop the audience.

While not sacrificing anything in regard to colour, texture or cohesive forms, Schmidt and Sokolović enhance our concert by providing sonic clues about what is being described in the music – Schmidt reflecting on places visited (or to be visited) and Sokolović reminiscing about childhood and imitating mechanical things.

Tonight's concert, as with all programs in Esprit's line-up this season, has diverse wonders and subtleties and reveals the powerful spells that today's music can have over us, as well as the enjoyment it can provide. We welcome you in sharing this evening with us.

Stephen SitarSKI enjoys a varied career as a violinist and musician. He is concertmaster of both the Hamilton Philharmonic Orchestra and Esprit Orchestra, and held the same position with the Kitchener-Waterloo Symphony (KWS) for 15 seasons. During his tenure in K-W, SitarSKI became Artistic Director of the KWS Baroque and Beyond. Stephen has also been guest concertmaster across North America. He has served as Associate Concertmaster of the Canadian Opera Company, the Winnipeg Symphony Orchestra, and was guest concertmaster and soloist with the National Ballet Orchestra for Eugene Onegin and Russian Seasons in March 2011.

Stephen frequently appears as soloist with many concertos in the standard repertoire as well as concertos written specially for him by Canadian composers such as Kelly-Marie Murphy (Blood Upon the Body, Ice Upon the Soul, 2006 premiere with Kitchener-Waterloo Symphony), and Glenn Buhr (Violin Concerto, 2000 premiere with Kitchener-Waterloo Symphony). Stephen is a founding member of Trio Laurier and is a regular participant in diverse chamber groups and festival events nationally and internationally with many of Canada's finest musicians. ANA SOKOLOVIĆ
Ringelspiel (2013)

Composer's Note:

Ringelspiel was Sokolović's first commissioned work for the NAC Orchestra. The fifteen-minute Ringelspiel (Austrian-German for merry-go-around, which is similar to Ringispil in Sokolović's native Serbian) is laid out in seven short, connected sections. To most of us, a merry-go-round brings back memories of childhood and conjures up emotional responses of nostalgia and naïveté. So too does it for this composer. In addition, Sokolović has derived inspiration from the mechanical aspects of a merry-go-round – its simplicity of movement, its circular motion, and its status as an icon of the machine age.

MARC-ANDRÉ DALBAVIE
Concerto for Violin and Orchestra (1996)

Conductor's Note:

The listener is drawn into Dalbavie's violin concerto through a drifting set of opening chords and textural sonorities. Before long the violin soloist enters, combining with the orchestra onstage in unexpected ways. While the solo part is the focal point, the piece almost moves into the realm of being a concerto for orchestra full of striking interjections and orchestrations of great interest on their own. The soloist's part moves in and out of orchestral episodes, always independent yet also seeming to be part of the orchestral activity rather than being accompanied as in a traditional concerto.

The piece initially appears as a traditional concerto with the virtuosity of the soloist as a focal point of reference. But this changes as the composer takes advantage of the possible combinations made available through the spatial redefinition of orchestral sonority. The violin line can be detached from the orchestral flow, or merge with it in an overall timbre. The musical elements of this work are an integral part of a continuous transformation created by the dissolution of the concerto genre.

DOUGLAS SCHMIDT
Just a stranger here myself... (2014)

Composer's Note:

The title of this work Just a stranger here myself... is inspired by a song by Kurt Weill (music) and Ogden Nash (lyrics) from One Touch of Venus. There is no reference to the music or subject matter of Weill's work. My personal use of the phrase refers to places that I have either visited or lived in. Most particularly since moving to Germany, I often find myself feeling like a stranger. The odd thing is that when I return to my home country Canada, I feel the same way after becoming somewhat acculturated to a German mentality. The whole idea of immigration and cultural appropriation somehow takes on a new meaning.

There are also two books and a British sitcom sharing the same title. The first, by travel writer Bill Bryerson, is called I'm a Stranger Here Myself: Notes on Returning to America 20 Years Away. The second, by John Seymour, is called I'm a Stranger Here Myself: The Story of a Welsh Farm. Finally, the British sitcom: Sorry, I'm a Stranger Here Myself.

DANIEL BJARNASON
Emergence* (2011)

Composer's Note:

"Emergence is a triptych in which the musical substance comes into focus via an amalgam of minimalist gestures and long-term harmonic planes." – Richard Whitehouse

"This piece is aptly titled Emergence. The inexorable progresses of the underlying harmonies suggest a vast, pre-existing form just coming into view, but while these harmonies keep steady somewhere beneath the audible surface of the piece, they're manifested in a range of unstable attacks, hesitations, and anticipations." – Bedroom Community

Emergence was my first purely orchestral piece. It was written for the Iceland Symphony Orchestra and premiered by them at the Dark Music Days Festival in Reykjavik in January 2011, conducted by myself. I have since made a few edits to the work. The main one is a new ending I recently made to the last movement. The piece was recorded for the Bedroom Community label and came out on the album Over Light Earth in 2013. A new recording of the work, featuring Orchestra, will be found on the album Recurrence which comes out in April 2017 on the Sono Luminus label.

(b.1968)

Serbian-born composer Ana Sokolović, who has lived in Montreal for two decades, has been immersed in the arts all her life. Before taking up theatre and music, she studied classical ballet. She studied composition at university under Dusan Radić in Novi Sad and Zoran Erić in Belgrade. She then completed a Master's degree under the supervision of José Evangelista at the University of Montreal in the mid-1990s. Her work is suffused with her fascination for different forms of artistic expression. Both rich and playful, her compositions draw the listener into a vividly imagined world, often inspired by Balkan folk music and its asymmetrical festive rhythms.

Over the years, Ana Sokolović has earned a steady stream of commissions and awards. Today, her repertoire includes orchestral, vocal, chamber, operatic and theatrical pieces. From 1995 to 1998, she was a three-time recipient of the SOCAN Foundation Award for Young Composers. In the 1999 edition of the CBC Young Composers Competition, she won the grand prize along with first prize in the chamber music category. In 2005, she won the Joseph S. Stauffer Prize (Canada Council), and in 2007 the Conseil québécois de la musique awarded her the Prix Opus for composer of the year. In 2008 and 2012, she won the Jan V. Matejcek Award (SOCAN). In 2009, she won the prestigious National Arts Centre Award, which included commissions, residencies and teaching positions over a five-year period. In 2012, her opera Svadba-Wedding received six nominations for the Dora Mavor Moore Awards and won for Outstanding New Musical/Opera. The opera then went on tour in Canada and Europe until 2015.

The Société de musique contemporaine du Québec recently marked the 20th anniversary of Sokolović's arrival in Quebec with a celebration of her body of work. The series, held over the 2011-12 season, attracted record participation as Canadian artists and organizations enthusiastically answered the call. More than 200 events were presented in her honour from coast to coast.

Ana Sokolović recently received a commission from the Canadian Opera Company for a main-stage opera to be premiered during the 2019-20 season. Ana Sokolović teaches composition at the University of Montreal.

MARC-ANDRÉ DALBAVIE (b.1961)

Marc-André Dalbavie is now one of the most frequently performed composers of his generation, having opened up contemporary music in numerous directions. He has received commissions from the most prestigious orchestras (Chicago Symphony, Cleveland Orchestra, Berlin Philharmonic, Philadelphia Orchestra, Orchestre de Paris, BBC Symphony, Montreal Symphony, Tokyo Philharmonic, and more), as well as from musical institutions such as Carnegie Hall, Suntory Hall in Tokyo, London's 'Proms' Festival, Aspen Music Festival, Marlboro Festival, Radio

France's Présences festival, Cité de la Musique in Paris.

Starting from research on timbre and the phenomenon of sound, linked to electronics, he went on to produce a set of spatialized acoustic pieces. These create a spatial sensation in continuous transformation, within which the listener is immersed. Written especially for the halls and venues where they were to have their first performances, some of them are even in situ works and, as such, modify the framework of the traditional concert. At the same time, the composer began work on the orchestra in order to explore the full potential from sound diffraction up to the symphonic bloc, gliding from one to the other via the principle of generalized morphing. This innovative context has enabled him to lift several modernist taboos, and he has thus reintegrated consonance and rhythmic beat, redeployed the genres of concerto or certain chamber music combinations, given back its melodic fluidity to the voice, and rethought the question of text/music relations.

In October 2010, he conducted the premiere of his first opera, Gesualdo, on a libretto by Richard Millet, at the Opernhaus in Zurich, directed by Patrice Caurier and Moshe Leiser. He also conducted his opera Charlotte Salomon, on a libretto by Barbara Honigmann and staged by Luc Bondy on July 28th, 2014 for the premiere in Salzburg Festival.

DOUGLAS SCHMIDT (b.1962)

At the age of 7, a door-to-door accordion salesman came to Douglas Schmidt's house selling accordions. The choice offered was a red or a white instrument. Douglas chose the red one and tentatively began his music career. At the age of 12 he also became interested in the clarinet, bought one for 20 dollars, and began to play on it. Two years later at the age of 14 he started winning many instrumental competitions on the accordion, but soon became frustrated with the lack of good arrangements and repertoire available for that instrument at the time. So, he began a career of composing and arranging his own music.

While completing a Doctorate of Music degree at the University of British Columbia, Schmidt had a meeting with the legendary bandoneonist and composer Astor Piazzolla, an experience that eventually changed his musical direction. Piazzolla stated that finding and keeping one's identity through personal experience as a musician is crucial but not easy to achieve. Schmidt now plays and performs on the German bandoneon and also composes music. The bandoneon is an incredibly complicated German type of concertina designed to play church music as a substitute for the organ and was adopted by Argentineans for their tango music. Schmidt believes that the instrument chose him; the sound and feel of playing it became part of his mental and physical essence. Since meeting Piazzolla, Schmidt has performed with many symphony orchestras including the Buffalo, London, Montreal, Esprit, Nova Scotia, former CBC, Victoria, Montana, and Berlin.

As a composer, he wears many different stylistic hats but strives to maintain an individual voice of uniqueness. Allowing his immediate environment and experiences to directly influence his musical creativity is crucial. Schmidt is a Canadian citizen, but lived in Dusseldorf and Berlin, Germany for six years; he now resides in Saigon (Ho Chi Minh City), South Vietnam teaching International Baccalaureate Music. He is also currently an examiner for the Oxford University International Baccalaureate music program.

DANÍEL BJARNASON (b.1979)

Icelandic composer and conductor Daníel Bjarnason is currently artist-in-residence with the Iceland Symphony Orchestra and composer in residence at the Muziekgebouw Frits Philips Eindhoven. As a co-curator of the Los Angeles Philharmonic's Reykjavik Festival with Esa-Pekka Salonen, Bjarnason was featured as both a conductor and composer in Los Angeles in 2017, with his Violin Concerto premiering with Gustavo Dudamel and soloist Pekka Kuusisto at the Hollywood Bowl in August.

Recent commissions further include works for the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, Rambert Dance Company, Britten Sinfonia, Jennifer Koh, So Percussion, Calefax, Calder Quartet, and a new opera for the Danish National Opera which premiered in August 2017 as part of the Aarhus - Culture Capital of Europe celebrations. Based on the Susanne Bier film of the same name and with a libretto by Kerstin Perski, Brothers was directed by Kasper Holten, and conducted by André de Ridder.

Bjarnason's music has been performed by conductors such as John Adams, James Conlon, Louis Langrée and Ilan Volkov in venues including the Walt Disney Concert Hall in Los Angeles, New York's Lincoln Center, Harpa in Iceland and London's Barbican Centre. Daníel's versatility as an artist has led to collaborations with a broad array of musicians outside the classical field including Sigur Rós, Brian Eno, Efterklang and Ben Frost.
